Exit Lane Breach Control – Without the use of a security guard

The Kaba exit lane corridor provides the highest throughput available to efficiently control passenger flow from the sterile airside to the landside while eliminating costs associated with posting security guards; without compromising airport security or passenger safety.

Through advanced video analytic surveillance, the stand-alone system monitors, alerts, notifies and isolates potential intruders and detects attempts to pass objects through the corridor and the presence of suspicious materials left behind – all in real time video.

FEATURES:

- Stainless steel construction – Not clad aluminum
- Integrates with existing security and fire detection systems
- Continuous flow and interlock functions
- ROI is potentially 18 months or less
